Technology for Non-Technical People

WHAT IT IS

The program lets non-technical people understand the work of software developers through a realistic simulation: participants write code, work with it as a team and experience software quality problems. It makes collaboration between business and technical teams easier.

AT A GLANCE

Duration	6 days (6 × up to 8 hours)
Audience	Product Owners, project managers, business people working with IT
Format	in-house only; the program can be split into shorter blocks
Language	English or Polish
Led by	Sławomir Bogusławski

WHO IS IT FOR?

- The participant works with developers and does not understand why their work takes the time it does.
- Decisions about digital products are made without a sense of technical cost.
- Communication between business and the technical team leads to misunderstandings.

WHAT PARTICIPANTS TAKE AWAY

After the training, the participant:

- understands the basics of programming and the developer's tools,
- recognizes technical debt and its cost,
- understands the importance of the Definition of Done and code review,
- knows what supports and what hinders the work of a development team.
